Gentlemen of the Senate:

I send herewith, the treaty concluded on the 27th of October last, between the United States and Spain, by their respective Plenipotentiaries.

The communications to the Senate referred to in my message of the 16th of December, 1793, contain the instructions to the Commissioners of the United States, Messrs. Carmichael and Short, and various details relative to the negotiations with Spain. Herewith I transmit copies of the documents, authorizing Mr. Pinckney, the Envoy Extraordinary from the United States to the Court of Spain, to conclude the negotiation, agreeably to the original instructions above-mentioned, and to adjust the claims of the United States for the spoliations committed by the armed vessels of his Catholic Majesty on the commerce of our citizens.

The numerous papers exhibiting the progress of the negotiation, under the conduct of Mr. Pinckney, being in the French and Spanish languages, will be communicated to the Senate as soon as the translations which appear necessary shall be completed.

Go. WASHINGTON.

UNITED STATES, February 26th, 1796.

The message and papers therein referred to, were in part read.

On motion,

Ordered, That they lie for consideration, and that the treaty be printed for the use of the members.

The report of the committee on the treaty made between the United States and the Dey of Algiers, was further postponed.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 29, 1796.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the report of the Committee, appointed the 18th instant, on the message of the President of the United States, referring to the treaty made with the Dey of Algiers, which is as follows:

The Committee to whom was referred the President's communication of the 15th instant, report:

That the expense of procuring and transporting to Algiers the naval and military stores included in the douceur for peace, will probably amount to about $120,000, making the whole douceur, and the ransom of the prisoners, about $763,000; and that, besides the stipulated annuity of 12,000 sequins, the custom of Algiers will render necessary a present, biennially, of nine or ten thousand dollars; and, upon the appointment of a Consul, a present of $20,000.

That, of the money included in the douceur for peace, $60,000 were paid at the time of signing the treaty; the residue was expected to be paid soon, and when the prisoners should be released, and has probably been paid. And,

That, in the opinion of the Committee, it will be expedient for the Senate to advise and consent to a ratification of the treaty.

On motion to expunge the last clause of the report, as follows: "That, in the opinion of the Committee, it will be expedient for the Senate to advise and consent to a ratification of the treaty:"

And after debate, it was agreed to postpone the consideration of the report until to-morrow.

The following written message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Dandridge, his Secretary:

Gentlemen of the Senate:

I send, herewith, the papers relating to the negotiation of the treaty with Spain, to which I referred in my message of the 26th instant.

Go. WASHINGTON.

UNITED STATES, February 29th, 1796.

The message and papers were read.

Ordered, That they lie for consideration.

TUESDAY, MARCH 1, 1796.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the report of the Committee on the treaty made with the Dey of Algiers, and the motion yesterday made thereon, to expunge the last clause of the report; and, on the question for striking out the clause,

It passed in the negative.

On motion to adopt the following resolution:

That the Senate are of opinion, that the papers which accompanied the President's message, relative to the Algerine treaty, so far as they concern the expenditure of money therein mentioned, do not, in their present situation, authorize the agency of the Senate, because they do not appear to influence any stipulation contained in that treaty; nor to form any independent compact submitted for the advice and consent of the Senate. Without prejudice, therefore, to any question which those papers may hereafter beget, the Senate do advise and consent to the ratification of the treaty of peace and amity concluded at Algiers, on the 5th of September, 1795, between the United States of America and the Dey of Algiers, contained in twenty-two articles, and signed by Vizier Hassan, Bashaw, and Joseph Donaldson. The Senate, however, do advise the President of the United States to seek, by new negotiations with the Dey of Algiers, to render more certain the obligation imposed on the United States by the 22d article, by defining the kind and value of the maritime stores therein mentioned.

On motion to amend the motion, as follows:

Resolved, That the Senate do advise and consent to the ratification of the treaty of peace and amity concluded at Algiers on the 5th of September;

Ordered, That the Secretary lay the resolution before the President of the United States.

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of the treaty made between the United States and his Catholic Majesty, and transmitted, with the message of the President of the United States, of the 26th of February last; and, after debate, Ordered, That the further consideration thereof be postponed.

THURSDAY, MARCH 3, 1796.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the treaty made between the United States and his Catholic Majesty, and transmitted, with the message of the President of the United States, of the 26th of February last.

On motion, That the Senate agree to the following resolution:

Resolved, (two-thirds of the Senators present concurring therein,) That the Senate do advise and consent to the ratification of the treaty between the United States and his Catholic Majesty, concluded on the 27th of October, 1795, at San Lorenzo el Real.

On motion,

It was agreed to amend the motion, by expunging the words “two-thirds of the Senators present concurring therein.”

On the question to agree to the resolution as amended,

It passed in the affirmative—Yeas 26.

The yeas and nays being required by one-fifth of the Senators present,

Those who voted in the affirmative, are—Messrs. Bingham, Bloodworth, Bradford, Brown, Burr, Butler, Cabot, Ellsworth, Foster, Gunn, Henry, King, Langdon, Latimer, Livermore, Martin, Mason, Paine, Potts, Robinson, Ross, Strong, Tazewell, Trumbull, Vining, and Walton.

So it was

Resolved, unanimously, That the Senate advise and consent to the ratification of the treaty between the United States and his Catholic Majesty, concluded on the 27th of October, 1795, at San Lorenzo el Real.

Ordered, That the Secretary lay this resolution before the President of the United States.
